In the State of New Jersey, you can prearrange and prepay for your funeral, you can acquire a cemetery plot or express where you would like your ashes to be scattered. You can appoint a person in your Last Will & Testament (such as a “Funeral Agent”) to control your funeral and the disposition of your remains, as per N.J.S.A. 45:27-22. However, if you do not appoint someone in your Last Will & Testament, statute directs that certain people or groups of people are given the authority to make the decision, in order of priority:

- (1) The surviving spouse of the decedent.
- (2) A majority of the surviving adult children of the decedent.
- (3) The surviving parent or parents of the decedent.
- (4) A majority of the brothers and sisters of the decedent.
- (5) Other next of kin of the decedent according to the degree of consanguinity.
- (6) If there are no known living relatives, a cemetery may rely on the written authorization of any other person acting on behalf of the decedent.

As always, we recommend that you sit down with a live professional who understands the complexities of the law and who is going to provide feedback on the intricate nature of what one might be trying to accomplish through the drafting of a Last Will & Testament before making any of these decisions. What may work for one person may not work for their friends and family members.

In most cases, when a loved one passes away without making these arrangements, those left behind will be called upon to make a wide variety of decisions and to wrap up the affairs of the dearly departed at a time when they want to do anything but think about the loss they have just suffered. At that time, the choice of funeral home becomes a very important one; they must find someone who understands the families’ needs and who is able to facilitate the peace of mind everyone involved may long to attain in paying their respects, while honoring and celebrating the life our beloved.

It is the duty of a funeral director to effortlessly manage every detail associated with your loved one’s funeral, to bridge the gap between life and the hereafter and to live day-in and day-out, so that we may pass on in peace with honor and humility. Here is a list of the funeral homes in the County of Bergen where you may find the professional assistance and guidance in your time need.
